

Realignment and rebuilding the Metropolitan Branch Trail (MBT) will include widening the trail, softening the Z-turn at R Street, adding a connection from Q Street to the MBT, installing new trail signage and cycling infrastructure (bike racks, Fix-It station, etc.), and providing new light fixtures to improve trail safety and navigation in conjunction with the construction of the 2.5-acre Alethia Tanner Park.

The existing trail will be closed temporarily on or about August 12th and anticipated to be reopened by early November. During this period, please utilize the temporary trail along Harry Thomas Way reconnecting to the MBT at Randolph Place (illustrated above in green). There will be no MBT access from R Street, but you will be able to access the temporary trail there. The temporary trail will provide accommodations for pedestrians and cyclists, and will be separated from vehicular travel by flexible bollards, spaced 4 feet apart.

For any comments or concerns, please feel free to reach out via e-mail at nomapark@forresterconstruction.com.